NCAA PLAYOFF HISTORY

Four times in the last five years Cal Poly Pomona has earned a place among the nation's elite by its presence in the NCAA Tournament. In 2008, the Broncos won more postseason matches than any other time in their history with their two wins (vs. Western Oregon and Cal State Los Angeles) before ending the season in the NCAA Pacific Regional title match against host Cal State San Bernardino.

The Broncos have earned 15 trips to the NCAA Tournament in their history and completed 2008 by finishing 14th in the final Bison/American Volleyball Coaches Association poll.

The Broncos have reached the regional finals six times in their history (1984, 1985, 1991, 1992, 1997 and 2008) and three times under current coach Rosie Wegrich.

Cal Poly Pomona made its first trip to the NCAA playoffs with head coach Tom Ash in 1983 and picked up its first NCAA playoff victory in 1984 with first-year head coach Paul Gabriel by defeating UC Riverside, 15-9, 14-16, 15-13, 15-6. The Broncos fell to Sacramento State in four games in the regional finals.

The Broncos picked up another playoff win in 1985 with a five-game win over UC Riverside, 13-15, 11-15, 15-10, 15-10, 15-9 and advanced to the regional final for the second straight year. The Broncos fell to Cal State Northridge in four games.

Cal Poly Pomona won its third playoff game in 1991, defeating UC Riverside in a first-round match, 15-12, 14-16, 15-12, 8-15, 15-13 to advance to the regional final where the Broncos fell to Cal State Bakersfield.

In 1992, the Broncos earned the top seed in the regional and faced longtime rival Cal State L.A. in the final, where the Broncos lost 3-2 in a match played at CPP.

The Broncos waited until 1997 before winning its fourth playoff match, a five-game thriller over Cal State L.A., 15-5, 3-15, 15-7, 15-17, 16-14. Cal Poly Pomona finished second in the region after falling to Cal State Bakersfield in three games in the final.

Postseason play would be out of reach for Cal Poly Pomona until the 2004 season. The Broncos qualified as the No. 7 seed in the Pacific Region and lost to Cal State San Bernardino in three games.

The Broncos then qualified as the No. 2 seed in the 2005 playoffs and fell to nationally-ranked and No. 7 seed Central Washington in a heartbreaking five-game match.

Two years later, the Broncos earned the fourth seed and lost a five-game match against fellow CCAA member Cal State Los Angeles played at Cal State San Bernardino.

Cal Poly Pomona's overall playoff record is 6-15.
